Mountain View M.D. Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Mountain View Municipality was held at the Olds School of Agriculture on Saturday. Mr. Theo Reist was elected to the chair.

The financial statement was read which showed the finances of the district was in a very healthy condition. There was a good cash balance on hand and it had been possible to finance during the year without any borrowings from the bank, while the cash balance had earned $118.91 in interest.

The statement was discussed and a number of questions were asked which were apparently answered satisfactorily.

The question was asked if it would be possible to gain lower the mill rate. It was pointed out that the assessment for 1935 had been lowered almost 20 per cent and that it would be necessary to raise the mill rate to produce the same revenue as at present. It did not follow however that the amount of taxes would be increased. The supplementary revenue would be reduced under the new assessment by $1450.00 over the whole municipality.

An amended resolution was passed that the minister of the meetings and items of expenditures in connection with public works be given to the newspapers.

The financial statement was adopted.

Hon. F. S. Grisdale, minister of agriculture spoke on the condition of the farming industry stating that the income of Alberta farm products had dropped for 1927 to almost one third in 1933, however he was pleased that 1934 had shown a decided up-turn.

He said that the hog market was one of the bright spots at the present time and showed that the quality has improved considerably. Forty eight per cent of the hogs marketed now graded bacon or select. The cattle market was showing some improvement and the prospects of marketing grain were improved on account of smaller carry over of wheat and the actual shortage of course grains.

He said however that he would not recommend the sowing of garnet wheat except for feed on account of the special grading which went into effect this year.

Touching on relief he stated that $19,000,000 had been paid out by the province for relief and that $1,000,000 was for agricultural relief.

Nominations were called for and Councillors Percy Saunders and W. D. Archer were returned unopposed for Division 1 and 2. In Division 3 Mr. James Rupp and the retiring councillor, Mr. W. J. McCoy were nominated.

The election will be held on Saturday next at the Municipal office at Didsbury. Mr. Geo. Burns is the returning officer.

Canadian Banks Make Money

The earnings of nine of the ten chartered banks in Canada for 1934 totalled $18,329,456.00. Paid-up capital of the ten banks stands at one-hundred-and-forty-five million. Reserve funds total $132,750,000.00 and all the assets aggregate nearly three billion dollars.—Not bad in a time of depression.

Town Council.

The first meeting of the Town Council was held on Monday evening with Mayor Chambers in the chair.

The newly elected mayor and councillors took the oath of office.

A copy of a letter which had been sent to the Department of Municipal Affairs by Mr. Lynch-Staunton on behalf of certain unnamed ratepayers was read in which he complained of what he claimed were irregularities of the council during the years 1933 and 1934 and the reply from the Department was read.

The motion passed at the annual meeting of ratepayers asking that a detailed report of all expenditures be published in the Didsbury Pioneer was considered.

The council decided "that in view of the reply from the Department of Municipal Affairs regarding the letter from Mr. Lynch-Staunton, this council does not deem it necessary to have detailed information as to expenditures published in the "Pioneer", especially as any elector has the privilege of applying to the secretary or the chairman of any committee for any information which could then be supplied in accordance with the town act.

The following committees and boards were appointed for the year.

Finance: Mayor Chambers and Councillor Budgeon.

Public Works: Councillors Gooder, Rieber and Budgeon.

Police License and Relief: Councillors Rieber and Spence.

Sanitation: Councillors Pitt and Fleury.

Fire and Property: Councillors Budgeon and Fleury.

Building Inspectors: Councillors Gooder, Pitt and Mr. F. Kaufman.

Library Board, (for 2 years) Mrs. Hugst, Mr. C. R. Ford and Mayor Chambers.

Local Board of Health: Messrs. Adshead, Pitt and Fisher.

Representatives on Hospital Board: Mrs. Harder and Councillor Gooder.

Mr. A. Brusco was appointed auditor for 1935.

The council decided to sell to Mr. Otto Klein on a lease option lots M and O in the south part of town for the sum of $700.00.

The question of salaries for the year were discussed and it was decided the salaries of the Secretary, treasurer and Constable be advanced to $1200 per year.

Matters of relief were discussed and bills and accounts passed for payment.

Westerdale M.D. Annual Meeting

The Westerdale Municipal District annual meeting was held at Westerdale Community Hall on Saturday last with Reeve Geo Clarke in the chair.

The financial statement was read and showed that the municipality had been able to clear up its indebtedness to the bank and were in a very good financial position.

There was very little discussion on the statement which seemed satisfactory to the ratepayers.

Reeve Clarke gave an outline as to the agreement with the Department of Public Works and the estimated cost of the Sundre road and stated that in addition to the part of the cost assumed by the government grants had been made by the town of Olds and the M.D. of Waterton. He also stated that allowance had been made for the grading previously done by the municipality.

He pointed out that after completion of the road would be taken over by the Department who would take care of all maintenance. The councillors in the north, he said, have agreed that they would assist in building roads in the south to a greater extent when this road was completed.

Councillor Hogg reported that 25 miles of new road had been built with the elevator grader, 27 miles with the blade grader, and 4 miles of elevated road rebuilt. The average cost of the elevated roads had been $115 per mile.

The question of hospital bills came in for some discussion and several ratepayers expressed themselves that collection of hospital accounts should be more strenuous.

The destruction of pest and weed was discussed and it was pointed out that unless the inspector got full co-operation from the farmers the best results could not be obtained.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Reeve and council, especially for their work in connection with the Sundre road.

Reeve Geo Clarke was re-elected by acclamation in Division 5.

Hospital Dance Draws Big Crowd

They were here from hither and you to attend the dance given in aid of the local hospital Tuesday evening and there was the biggest crowd that has attended a dance in Didsbury for some time.

Si Hopkins and his radio orchestra kept the dancers happy till the early hours of the morning.

The contest for a blanket was won by Mr. Tom Morris.

Proceeds of the dance netted the handsome sum of $29.11, which will be used to purchase extra equipment for the hospital.

The matron and nurses wish to thank all those who helped make the affair such a success.

Born.

February 17th, 1935, at Long Beach, California, to Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Reiber, a daughter.

Mr. Charles Brown was elected by acclamation in Division 6 in place of Councillor C. L. Holmes. In Division 4 retiring councillor Mr. W. F. Bates and Mr. W. F. Nidrie were nominated.

The election will take place at N. S. Ellithorpe's farm on the N.W. of Sec. 4-33-4-5.

The World At The Cross-Roads

The history of this old world unfolds a continuing story of revolutions.—some peaceful in character, some accomplished by physical force accompanied by great loss of life, incalculable suffering, and enormous destruction. Over and over again the history of man records revolutions,—political, religious, social and economic.

In many cases it is impossible to say when a revolution actually began and when it may be said to have ended, because there were so gradual in their development and progress as to be regarded as evolutionary instead of revolutionary, yet in their ultimate effect upon mankind they were distinctly revolutionary in character.

On the other hand, there have been revolutions which may be said to have started almost over night and reached their climax in a very short period of time, but the underlying causes nevertheless had been accumulating throughout the preceding years.

The birth and teachings of Confucius, Mohammed, Jesus, Martin Luther, were all revolutionary in the religious life of peoples; the discovery of the power of steam ushered in the industrial age and revolutionized the whole economic structure through the machine replacing hand labor; the invention of printing completely altered the social fabric, and science and invention have progressively changed political, social and economic systems.

Other revolutions of a political character have had a lasting effect upon the world, although many of them, unlike the other revolutions referred to, operated not to advance the welfare and betterment of mankind, but to set back the hands of the clock of progress and delay betterment which would have been promoted through more orderly evolutionary processes.

The world is now passing through another revolutionary stage, and while conditions and developments prior to the Great War were laying a foundation for the present upheaval, the war itself may be designated as the culminating event which marks the beginning of the revolution, which embraces our political, religious, social and economic life and activities.

In some countries of Europe and Asia this revolution has developed and is being promoted through the application of physical force, restriction of individual rights and liberties, the overthrow of democratic political institutions, interference with religious liberties and beliefs, all ending in the assumption of full power by autocratic dictatorships. And on this continent of the new world there are forces at work striving in season and out of season to inflame the people to forsake their individual liberties, overthrow the existing system under which, whatever its defects, they have attained their present state of civilization, and revert to a state and method of living from which the race has progressed upward throughout the centuries of the past.

And because of the difficulties of the present,—inseparable from any great change,—and without giving due heed to the lessons of all past history, many people are giving an attentive ear to the impassioned urgings of the prophets of despair, who, of course and as always before, paint the rosiest pictures of what the future will be if their particular panacea is accepted.

On this continent of the new world people have been trained in the idea of democratic government,—government of the people, by the people, for the people,—that it was the duty of a government to govern; that governments were created solely for that purpose. Now the idea is urged that governments should not govern people as the people themselves dictate, but that governments should order and control the people; that instead of the people being supreme, controlling the government, the government should be supreme and all-powerful controlling and ordering the people. That is, the proposal is a reversion to what is known as the Dark Ages when kings and barons ruled and the people worked and obeyed.

And in order to secure support for taking this backward step people are offered "security." People want security, they are entitled to it, they must have it. And the people can and will get it because they have the power to establish it; but a little thought will convince that it is not to be secured by dispossessing themselves of power and handing it over to any dictatorial form of government. Loss of liberty and freedom can have but one ultimate end,—the loss of security. Even if security could be thus established, the price to be paid is too great because the losses sustained would far outweigh the one proposed gain. An animal in a cage enjoys security which the one roaming its native wilds does not enjoy, but what animal prefers the cage to freedom? And man least of all.

It is also urged that only through the overthrow of the existing system can equality be established. But equality does not and cannot exist under any system. It does not exist under any system to-day, and never existed under any system of the past. Neither things nor people can be made equal. But things can be made equitable—and must be made so if we would preserve ourselves.

In this age, as in past ages, not merely inequality but things inequitable exist. The latter must be righted and can be. The wide existing margin between different classes of society must be closed. As one writer has stated it, "there should be neither treacherous peaks at the top nor unplumbable depths at the bottom; rather, by bringing these two extremes closer together, make it calculable that, with any normal cycle, whatever suffering shall be within reason and, in better days, excess wealth devoid of madness." Things must be made equitable.

New methods are necessary, but individual initiative and individual liberty which is the charm and strength of our civilization must remain the cornerstone of any structure we may erect. It must remain because it is part and parcel of our nature. Seek to suppress and destroy it, and immediately the world will have another revolution on its hands, probably one of great destructive physical force, because man will not remain content unless he enjoys liberty. And all history establishes the fact that once liberty is taken away and freedom curtailed, man will fight and if need be die in the effort to regain what he has lost.

Death Duties Enrich Britain

More than £400,000 or $2,000,000 were added to the British Treasury in death duties in a single day on wills proved at Somerset House, London, on Dec. 7. The total amount in death duties for the first four months of the fiscal year ended Dec. 1 was $225,521,411, only 3 per cent. of which is unavailable on account of litigation.

First Photograph On Paper

The year 1834 is famous for the production of the earliest recorded photograph on paper. This was the work of Henry Fox Talbot, who used paper sensitized by means of silver chloride. His book, "The Pencil of Nature," written in 1843, was the first book to be illustrated with photographs.

England now has one automobile for every 35 persons, compared with one for every five in the United States.

Economic Development

British Government Said To Have Scheme To Assist The Empire

Great Britain is about to announce a vast program of economic development throughout the empire, the Daily Herald, Laborite medium, said. The British government, the Herald added, would make the announcement after the commemoration on May 6 of King George V's silver jubilee.

It will take advantage of the presence in London of many Dominion and colonial statesmen to set forth a new plan for advancing loans at low rates, so as to permit all parts of the Empire to undertake public relief works, it was explained.

The Herald said funds would be lent on condition that they would be expended for the good of British industry. It drew the conclusion that the national government's move was an attempt to hasten the general elections.

CONSTIPATION ENDED FOREVER

Woman Finds a Permanent Remedy

With perfect frankness a woman correspondent writes:—

"I have suffered from constipation as long as I can remember, and taken all sorts of things—which in some cases seemed to do good at first, but afterwards to have no effect. Then I thought I would try Kruschen in my tea every morning, and I have done so for over a year. I am pleased to say after the first month I had no more trouble with constipation, and I have felt very fit."—(Mrs.) G. M. S.

Kruschen Salts is Nature's recipe for maintaining a condition of internal cleanliness. The six salts in Kruschen stimulate the organs of elimination to smooth, regular action. Your system is thus kept clear of those impurities which, if allowed to accumulate, lower the whole tone of the system.

Takes Mail To Lighthouse

Postman In England Climbs 403 Steps Every Day

Postmen in the towns and cities expect to climb steps on their daily delivery rounds—lots of steps—while a clamber up a precipitous slope or down a deep dale is regarded in the rural areas as so much a commonplace in the day's work of getting the mail to the addresses as to be quite unworthy of comment. But to climb down and up million and a half steps in six years with postcards, letters and parcels is a duty that surely merits special recognition, say the Post Office Magazine. Down 403 steps, up 403 steps, six days a week, month after month, year on year. This is part of the normal work of Mr. R. G. Rees, postman of Holyhead, who delivers the mail to the South Stack Lighthouse, Anglesey.

Queer Cure Effective

Stutter To Cure Stuttering Advocated By U.S. Doctor

No longer does the modern Demosthenes roll pebbles under his tongue to cure himself of stuttering. Instead, he forces himself to stutter voluntarily. This paradoxical device of stuttering to stop stuttering was advocated before the American Society for the Study of Speech Disorders by Dr. Bryng Brygelson, of the University of Minnesota, where he is now using it as treatment for more than 1,000 stutterers. He claims success in 60 per cent. of his cases.

The largest grain cargo to be taken from a Canadian Atlantic port in more than two years went from St. John to the United Kingdom by the steamship Trelawny. The first ship to go to St. John in that period for a full grain cargo, the Trelawny carried away upwards of 300,000 bushels.

An Eskimo Newspaper

Has Been Published Monthly In Greenland Since 1861

Since 1861 there has been a newspaper, with the title "Atuagagdliutit," published in Greenland. The name of the paper, translated into English, means "gratuitously distributed reading." The paper is published monthly, and there is an annual issue for those who live in the more remote and wildest parts of Greenland. The type is set up by six native compositors, and the small press is partly worked by a paraffin oil motor. Each edition of the publication is as full of information as possible, and a touch of modern journalism is introduced by the inclusion of a love story.

Russians Do Glider Stunts

Carry Out Two At Moscow Unique In Aviation History

Glider stunts have been made at Moscow unique in aviation history. The Soviet glider pilots, Koshitz and Garvish, demonstrated for the first time in the history of gliders, an "Immelman barrel figure." The glider first climbed for a loop and after reaching the highest point in the loop continued flying horizontally upside down then returned to its original position. The Immelman barrel figure, which consists of a double turning over the wing while flying horizontally was then carried out.

Want Empire Parley

Australian Government Thinks New Imperial Conference Should Be Held

The Australian government has made known its belief that a new imperial economic conference, similar to the great gathering held at Ottawa in 1932, should be convened although perhaps on a smaller scale to review the working of the Ottawa agreements and make new permanent arrangements to replace expiring clauses.

Australia is chiefly concerned at this time with the question of meat exports to the United Kingdom. The meat clauses expired last year and after much negotiation Australia finally said it was willing to accede to the British suggestion of voluntary restriction of meat exports for the next three months, on condition Britain agrees to take up the question of a permanent arrangement, and to review the Empire agreements generally, at a conference similar to that of Ottawa.

If such a conference is convened Australia will urge the quota system for certain imports instituted by Britain, notably agricultural products, should be abolished and instead a straight tariff preference system be substituted for imperial goods.

Coincidentally Premier R. L. Butler of the state of South Australia announced he would leave in March to discuss trade and marketing questions with the governments of the United Kingdom, the Scandinavian countries, Germany and Belgium.

Quiet For Vatican City

The sounding of automobile horns within the gates of Vatican City prohibited. The ban follows a recent decree of Premier Benito Mussolini who instituted an anti-noise campaign in Rome by prohibiting the sound of horns within 300 feet of his office in the Palazzo Venezia. It Duce is expected to extend the decree to all the principal cities of Italy.

Some Improvement Is Shown In Recent Months In The General Level of Prices of Farm Products

The general level of wholesale prices of farm products averaged approximately 15 per cent. higher in 1934 than in 1933, says the 1935 "Agricultural Situation & Outlook" which is about to be published by the Dominion Department of Agriculture in co-operation with the Department of Trade and Commerce. In the latter part of 1934 the index of farm products tended to fluctuate narrowly about 40 per cent. below average levels obtained in 1926, and 40 per cent. over the extreme low point of the depression reached in February, 1933. The variations in prices of farm products are illustrated by a comparison of averages covering the first ten months of 1933 and 1934 which reveal the following percentage increases:

No. 1 Manitoba Northern wheat	22 per cent.
No. 2 C.W. Oats	27 " "
Timothy hay, No. 2	70 " "
Good and Choice Steers	21 " "
Bacon hogs	61 " "
Wool, eastern bright	49 " "
Milk	9 " "
Butter	2 " "
Cheese	2 " "
Fresh eggs	13 " "

On the other hand, prices of potatoes declined 17 per cent.

Farm income, particularly towards the close of 1934 and the first part of 1935 may be expected to reflect in large part the improvement registered by farm prices. The gradual adjustment of the debt situation should also affect incomes favourably.

The rise in prices of farm products has been accompanied by a less rapid advance in value of things farmers buy. A specially constructed price index of farm purchases, including living requirements as well as operating equipment, has moved upward roughly 5 per cent. above the 1933 average. Foods mounted 8 per cent., clothing 1 per cent., household supplies and equipment 4 per cent., and operating supplies and equipment 5 per cent. Since prices of manufactured goods have not advanced as rapidly as those for farm products, farm incomes will purchase larger supplies of needed goods than could be obtained at the beginning of 1933. The 5 per cent. increase in prices of farm purchases, however, will prevent the improvement in purchasing power from being fully commensurate with the rise of the farmers' gross receipts.

Consumption of food products has been well maintained during the recent years of low prices. Future demand will depend on the ratio of prices to purchasing power. Food prices have advanced during the past year more rapidly than the prices of other goods. Increased food prices have been associated with increased farm prices. Greater volume of employment and some wage increases, especially in the logging, lumbering, and newsprint industries, have at least increased total wages as much as living costs have increased. Hence the higher prices received by farmers for an aggregate volume of goods similar to that of 1933 is a net national gain in domestic purchasing power.

The Unknown Soldiers

Only 6,000 Identified In Strange Cemetery In Italy

The strangest war cemetery in the world is at Redipuglia, Italy, where the bodies of 39,000 men are buried. Only 6,000 of the men are identified; the other 24,000 graves are those of unknown soldiers. The men were buried in such haste that there was no time to find out who they were or to what companies they belonged. This cemetery has no rows of wooden or stone crosses or sculptured monuments. Its tombstones are such familiar relics of war as aeroplane propellers, trench mortars, field kitchens, pieces of artillery, rifles with bayonets "fired", and tin hats battered by the blows of rifle butts and pierced by bullets. One memorial stone is even an anti-aircraft searchlight.

Some Old Windmills

Many In England Are Still In Good Condition

During the past year a number of old windmills in Britain have engaged the attention of the Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings. Chailey Mill, in Sussex, has now been thoroughly restored by funds raised by Mrs. Kimmins, founder of the Heritage Craft Schools, and it is being used as a dwelling house in connection with the cripple home. Outwood Mill, in Surrey, has been supplied with a sound pair of sails from a Norfolk windmill that was demolished. Old Moreton Mill, in Essex, has been made watertight and repainted. It is estimated that there are still nearly 1,000 of these picturesque landmarks to be seen on the English country side—some in good condition, many in urgent need of repair, but a large number in a derelict and dilapidated state. Hitherto it has been supposed that Bourne Mill, in Cambridgeshire, is the oldest in the British Isles, dating from 1636. An old tower mill has, however, been discovered in Sark (Channel Islands) which bears the date 1571 carved in stone over the balcony. It is owned by the Dame of Sark, who has in her possession receipts dating back 200 years for the cost of repairs carried out on the mill by her predecessors, the Seigneurs of Sark.

Cannot Predict Weather

Meteorologist Says It Is Useless To Make Long-Range Forecast

Weather during 1935 may be hot, cold or indifferent, but the chief weatherman—the meteorological bureau at Toronto—will make no predictions.

What the future holds in the way of weather is as much a mystery to the bureau as to the average citizen. John Patterson, director of the bureau, stated. Accurate forecasts can be made 24 hours in advance, he said, but 48-hour prognostications can not always be relied upon.

The forecasts of old-timers, who delight in calling the weather of the various seasons, basing their predictions on the thickness of bark on trees, thickness of hair on animals, and other of nature's protections for the periods, are viewed with interest by the scientific branch. But the bureau, who tab the change in weather throughout Canada, make no attempt to deny or confirm the predictions.

Even the appearance of the groundhog Feb. 2, Mr. Patterson said, is as good as anybody's guess as to when winter will end.

Makes Geography Popular

Pupils In Dutch School Take Lesson In Air Liner

The headmaster of a Dutch school has conceived the brilliant idea of using an air liner to teach geography. Instead of trooping dolefully into their classroom, the children now eagerly take their seats in the aeroplane, each with a map beside him and a pair of earphones. While the flight is in progress, the geography master, sitting before a microphone in the forefront of the cabin, points out and explains the features of the country side below, and the pupils check his remarks on their maps. A pre-arranged section of the Netherlands is taken with each flight. The children, it is found, absorb their lessons with twenty times the enthusiasm shown on the ground.

A huge map of the United States is under process of manufacture at Wellesley, Mass. Praises Royal Winter Fair

Best Agricultural Show He Has Seen States Lord Dorchester

Lord Dorchester, who journeyed from England specially to be one of the judges at the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto, told the Ottawa Women's Canadian Club that the fair was a tremendous project of which Canadians as a whole failed to realize its significance. To him, in its size, its splendid housing facilities and the diversity of its exhibits, it was unlike any agricultural show he had ever seen. Education was to be had there under the most pleasant auspices, and breeders and agriculturists came from many lands, to gain knowledge through exchange of views. The classes of the many animals shown and their splendid housing facilities, was only one of the many attractions.

The flower show was the equal of any he had seen at Chelsea, London, and the arrangements for display, finer than any in England. For himself Lord Dorchester admitted he had learned more than he ever thought possible, not only at the fair, but in an exchange of views on Canadian life gained in the various strata of society from Ministers of the Crown to bootblacks. "I took them as they came," he commented.

Work Speeded Up

Famous Highway In Austrian Alps Will Soon Be Finished

After being conducted leisurely for several years, construction of the famous Grossglockner Highway in the Austrian Alps is being pushed to completion so that it will be opened in the fall of next year. The road will traverse the Grossglockner range of the Alps and at the highest point will surmount the famous Edelweiss mountain. Construction work last summer was chiefly concentrated on the more precipitous section leading up to the summit, the "Firscherterl," where an observation parking place, nearly 8,000 feet above sea level, has been laid out.

Farm Creditor Boards Of Prairie Provinces Will Endeavor When Possible To Effect Conciliations

Before formulating mandatory proposals, boards of review appointed by the federal government under the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act for the prairie provinces will exhaust all efforts at conciliation—but debtors and creditors generally should understand that if the parties do not get together, then the boards, in fairness to all concerned can formulate a proposal, they will do so.

This point was brought out in a statement issued following a conference of the boards at Regina.

Those present at the meeting were: Mr. Justice Ewing, Stanley McCuaig, K.C., and H. E. McLeod, of Alberta; Mr. Justice Montague, A. E. Johnston, K.C., and W. G. Wroth, of Manitoba; Mr. Justice MacLean, G. W. Forbes, K.C., and Charles Harlton, of Saskatchewan.

When the conference of the prairie province boards had concluded, the following statement was authorized for publication:

"The boards appreciate fully that the intention of the legislation is that the farmers be retained on the land as efficient producers, and with that thought, boards have been created as a means whereby compromises or re-arrangements may be effected of the debts of the farmers who are unable to meet their liabilities as they become due. The boards recognize as a farmer entitled to consideration under the act, that farmer who reasonably is endeavoring to farm his land in a proper manner and dealing fairly with his creditors. They regard their powers under the act as being very broad and in dealing with cases that come before them, while considering priorities will recognize as paramount the necessity in the proper cases of making that re-arrangement or that re-adjustment fair to the debtor and his creditors which will result in retaining the farmer on the land under circumstances which it is hoped will mean that he can continue as an efficient producer.

"The boards will give consideration to a classification of various kinds of debts and will be disposed to give special consideration to those debts in the same classification incurred for the necessities of life or for the efficient production of the land. Where debts represent unpaid balances in respect of the purchase price of chattels or land considered by a board unnecessary to the efficient operation of the farm unit, the creditor will be expected to give favorable consideration to taking the security back and cancelling the obligation."

"Creditors in some instances are stressing the policy of settlements on the basis of bonus for performance. In many instances this will be acceptable and fair to the debtor and creditors, but it is considered advisable that the farmer should be removed not only from his position of being in default but also that he shall not by any proposal formulated by the board be left where there is likely to be an early return to that default position. The boards propose to exhaust all efforts at conciliation before formulating mandatory proposals, but debtors and creditors generally should understand that if the parties do not get together then the boards if in fairness to all concerned they can formulate a proposal they will do so.

"In many of the cases that have already come to the attention of the boards it has been noticeable that creditors have voluntarily consented to a reduction in the interest rate. Recognizing the undoubted burden of fixed interest charges, the boards hope that the trend thus indicated will be maintained.

"The boards feel that every reasonable effort that can be made to continue the individual farmer in the position of being a 'home owner' should be made.

"The boards would also draw the attention of all debtors and creditors generally to the fact that the courts have already recognized a distinct difference between the terms 'bankruptcy' and 'insolvency'. An unfortunate result of the serious economic depression and adverse climatic conditions has undoubtedly been to include a great number of farmers within the second term who do not come within the first.

"The boards will expect debtors and creditors generally to co-operate in the working out of this legislation designed as it is for their mutual benefit. The boards are desirous of having settlements arranged which are mutually satisfactory to debtors and creditors and believe that if all parties enter into the discussion of these difficulties with the traditional desire to get together and be of help so characteristic of the people of this country then settlements will be arrived at and a real contribution made.

"The members of the board are particularly desirous of dealing with all cases that come before them in the fullest and fairest manner and are especially concerned that in dealing with the facts and circumstances of all cases they shall do so not as advocates for a particular interest but as citizens concerned with making a real effort to assist their fellow citizens, both debtors and creditors, in their difficulties."

Umbrella Trade Poor

Frame Makers In England Lose $55,000 In Year

"The umbrella trade is absolutely done. Umbrellas and parasols are not used." Thus lamented a stockholder at the annual meeting at Birmingham, England, of a company of umbrella frame makers, who reported a trading loss of nearly $55,000 in the last year. The chairman calmed the stormy session by declaring that during worst periods of last summer's drought umbrellas were manufactured and sold. The company will continue to make the rain deflectors.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

NEW MEMBERS AHEAD!

When he's very young, a simple, minimum cost camera is really preferable in most instances, but once he comes under the spell of real snapshotting, he merits—and should have—a modern camera of the better type.

Year after year, the idea of cameras as appropriate gifts for birthdays, graduation and other memorable occasions, has grown steadily. Last year, if you'll pardon the personal intrusion, I gave my own mother a simple little camera on her birthday. At first, she was frankly skeptical. She had never used a camera, always relying on my sometimes unreliable self. She was sure she would never master that camera.

Now it goes with her everywhere, much to our mutual joy.

To some folks, I wouldn't dream of giving a camera. They're not enough interested in other folks and places and life in general to get any fun out of it.

But there are others the majority—to whom a camera would mean much.

What kind of camera? It depends entirely on the kind of person who is to receive it. Every youngster should have a chance at a camera, but only of the simplest, most inexpensive sort. By "inexpensive" I mean cameras costing from say, one to five dollars. They should be of any of the standard makes, using film available everywhere.

Of course, if you have a young friend who has shown more than average interest in picture making and has outgrown his simple little box camera, you can provide vast happiness by presenting him or her with a better camera.

Once you get above the five to ten dollar class, the variety of cameras to be had is bewildering. Of recent years there has been a tremendous increase in the use of so-called "precision" cameras—small cameras, beautifully made and equipped with all manner of useful gadgets. Their lenses are masterpieces, their adjustments more accurate than many a professional studio camera. Naturally, they cost money, plenty of money. Beginning at about $25, the prices of these miniature cameras range on up and up and up. If you're really anxious to spend a hundred dollars on a camera, you'll have no trouble at all. However, you can stay in the general neighborhood of fifty dollars and get some amazingly beautiful cameras. By "beautiful" I mean something so expertly designed and constructed that there's sheer delight in handling it.

Many of the miniature, precision cameras use very small-size film. The idea is that the small pictures are kept as records, while enlargements of the best shots are used by the proud owners to show what they've been doing.

Modern, fine-grain film, by the way, makes this procedure possible.

You need not, of course, consider the miniature camera in your gift hunting. For the average person you can select a camera with a reasonably good lens—one that's rated at f6.3, or even f4.5—and less a film big enough so that enlargements are not always necessary. The famed "post-card size" camera is a favorite and will probably remain so. There's a reason.

If it has been several years since you last looked at cameras, shop around just for the fun of it. You'll discover that things have been happening.

Correspondence.

To the Editor:

May I say a few words in justice to the "Social Credit gang," as we are called by Mr. Lew Wrigglesworth.

As to declaring an open season on banks and bankers, Social Credit does not intend to exterminate the banks and bankers (as Mr. Wrigglesworth puts it), but the financial system. Well sir, we are after it, and over 90 per cent in Didsbury, mind you. And sir, I say that we are "sane-minded citizens" at that. I can't say anything for the other 10 per cent.

Thanks Mr. Wrigglesworth for saying that Mr. Aberhart is a clever and learned man (that cannot be denied).

Again sir, I say that the Social Credit system is not "imposed," as you put it, upon the people of this Province. No sir, far from it, the 90 per cent sane-minded citizens want it, and the other 10 per cent want some kind of reform, maybe.

I don't know whether the good ship Capitalism was adrift in mid-ocean, or the planet Mars. It must have been very far, or Mr. Wrigglesworth would have heard the S.O.S. sent six times by the captain, the Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett. But after all there is only 10 per cent left of the people who will listen to such bunk.

HUGHIE ROBERTS

To the Editor:

Clarence Darrow makes this statement: "The trouble is that the few who own the world are not interested in changing it." I fully realize that our good ship "Social Credit" will have very turbulent and dangerous waters to be piloted through. Saag after snag will be placed in its path of progress. But I have faith in our pilot, I am confident that in time he will overcome all the obstacles and navigate our vessel into the harbor of "Purchasing Power for All." If on the other hand our ship should be in distress, what good purpose would it do to send out S.O.S. calls? In the past we have done so, but our good ship "Capitalism" has failed to answer our calls. It has been the habit of politicians to treat the people as fools, perhaps the time has now come to prove that we are not. Social Credit has started the people to think for themselves.

Any country that can survive the politicians, who have almost ruined us in the past twenty years, is at right. But Canada, and the Province of Alberta in particular, cannot any longer withstand the strain under the present conditions. The question is not whether Society will be planned or not, but in whose interest is the planning to be done? I think the time is coming when our economic order will be readjusted along lines that will not permit gain for the few. We must plan to give, not to a few, but to all our people, adequate buying power. That is what Social Credit intends to do.

Under our present conditions we are subordinated to the greed and self-seeking of the privileged classes; under their rule there is no road to recovery for the many. The terrible conditions into which we have drifted after the War is the result of the incompetence and selfishness of the various parties and leaders that have been, or are now, in power, during all these long years of suffering. That is what we want to change now by means of the Social Credit System.

The time has passed for us to achieve prosperity on the old hazardous lines. We have entered a period when careful and organized planning of leisure, as well as of work, is necessary. It is for ourselves to show that it can meet the conditions of a new era with the success it met those of the old, without any sacrifice of its democratic freedom, or any resort to dictatorships, under the domination of which so many countries have fallen. The old systems have not given us this. We hope that Social Credit will accomplish it.

People have lost all feelings of peace. And without peace of mind there is no production. When a man's mind is full of worries over the uncertainties of tomorrow, he cannot keep his thoughts on work. Man sickens without the prospect of reward for his labors. Insecurity is the worst and most demoralizing influence on people. Social Credit intends to remove the fear and worry of insecurity.

We have accepted many new inventions in the machinery field. Why shouldn't we? They have worked out to many advantages. They have been tried, tested, and found satisfactory. This cannot be said of our political governments. We have in the past tried many varieties of them. Most of them have failed in their promises, thereby causing a good deal of suffering, setting us back quite some distance. Hence it has contributed largely to the sad state of affairs now existent. The need henceforth is not to learn how to compete with each other for enough of this world's goods, but to learn how to live with each other in abundance. Social Credit is not a political organization, but an economic system which will endeavor to place purchasing power in the hands of the consumer.

Emerson, in an essay written nearly a hundred years ago, exclaimed, "What satire on government can equal the severity of censure conveyed in the word 'Politie,' which now for ages has signified 'Cunning?'" intimating that the state is a trick. Social Credit is a new economic reform system. It does not contemplate the confiscation of property, nor is it out to annihilate the banks. It is out to give to all classes of people more confidence in the future.

Dat Game Dey Call 'Bonspiel'

De noder day a frien' of mine,
He say, "Batiece" to me,
"W'y don' you go upon de rink,
For see bonspiel?" says he;
"Dere's plenty char for sit upon,
De place she's nice and warm,"
An' so at las', I think I go,
She can't do me no harm.

Wall, dat is the mos' foolish game
I never yet did see.
For all dey men was yell so loud,
I tink dey go craze.
They have the stone like big spetoon
An' shove it with de han',
For w'y dey get so much excite
I cannot understan'.

De man down at de noder en'
Ees put hees broom down so—
An' den he yell, "Now tak dat ice,"
Dat's foolish t'ing you know,
He can n't take de ice away,
She's frozen down so hard,
But still he yell, "Yes, tak her out,
I do not want the guard."

An' see dem teller sweep de broom,
For w'y I cannot tell,
Dere is not dirt upon de ice,
An' then some feller yell,
"Yes, hold her up," say, w'at he mean?
Madame's not here at all,
An' mam'selle in the gallerie,
I do not see her fall.

All sort of feller play dat game,
Dere's some dat's t'in an' long
An' some dat's maybe short an' stout,
An' some dat's pretty strong;
But w'en dey yell de stout man's
"wide,"

An' man dat's long an' tall,
"He's narrow," sure I do not tink
I stan' for dat at all.

I wonder w'at dat name she mean,
Well "bon" in French, she's "good,"
An' "spiel" in Scotchismak' beeg talk
Dat's w'at I understood.
Is'pose she's sort of half breed name,
I spik de way I feel.
I watch de game for two-t'ree night—
I tink she's mostly "Spiel."

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

A fortune in gold greater than any mined since pre-war years was taken from the rich hills and streams of Western Australia in 1934. It was announced the value of the total production was valued at £2,772,708.

It was announced the government of the Irish Free State has implemented the recent understanding with the British government for greater exchange of Irish cattle and British coal.

Commissioner John McMillan, Canada's new Salvation Army chief, and Mrs. McMillan arrived in Toronto to take over command of their new territory. It is the commissioner's third post in Canada.

With public meetings throughout the Dominion, a Canadian Education Week will be held under the auspices of the Canadian Teacher's Federation from Feb. 3rd to the 9th, it was announced in Montreal.

More than 500 lives were lost due to motor vehicle accidents in Ontario during 1934, a bulletin issued by the provincial department of highways states. Approximately 10,000 were injured, some permanently crippled or disfigured. Fatalities and accidents increased over last year.

The city of Vancouver has no intention of repudiating its debt charges, Mayor G. G. McGeer declared, but he intends to "lead a movement for reduction of high interest rates municipally, in all Canada, as well as provincially and federally."

Saskatchewan motorists who operated on the deferred payment plan in 1934 will be barred from obtaining 1935 licenses until their past dues are paid. In order to effectively cope with the problem, motor license officials have been instructed at the branch offices to issue no license plates. All plates are to be issued from the Regina office.

Monster Timber Wolf

Trapper Near Sudbury Shoots Huge Beast Over Seven Feet Long

In front of a Sudbury fur store hangs the pelt of what must have been one of the largest of Canadian timber wolves. The fur is 7½ feet long from nose to tail. The beast, brought down in the heavy timber of Gogama district, stood 2½ feet high when alive.

Two weeks ago C. Potvin, Gogama trapper, rounded a bend of a creek while covering his trap lines and suddenly found himself 12 feet in front of the largest wolf he had ever seen. With the wind at its back, the animal had not scented the man approaching.

With blood and fur on its jaw from a rabbit it had just killed, the wolf bristled and snarled a challenge at the stunned trapper. As the beast tensed for its leap, the trapper shot and the wolf dropped in its tracks, shot through the head.

During recent tests, the balloon soared more than 14 miles and before its contents were dashed to bits, the automatic radio broadcasting device had sent its precious records back to the receiving set.

YOUR HANDWRITING REVEALS YOUR CHARACTER!

By LAWRENCE HIBBERT
(Grapho-Analyst)
(All Rights Reserved)

(Editor's Note: Handwriting will often reveal talents as well as your weak and strong characteristics. A Character Analysis might mean the beginning of a new life for you. Read the author's invitation following this week's article.)

Mr. J—, Winnipeg, writes: "I am sending you a sample of my girl friend's writing with my own and would like to ask you what I can do about stopping the quarrels that we seem to be having so often. She is a very likeable girl in many ways and I am extremely fond of her, but we have these quarrels—silly they often seem to me—and unless something is done about it, it looks as though we shall drift apart. I do not want to place all the blame on my girl friend, but I do believe that I myself am not really responsible for these interminable quarrels. I do all that I can to have things go smoothly along. Can you give me any advice?"

My dear Mr. J—, the writing of your girl friend shows that she easily takes offence. She is inclined to "carry a chip" on her shoulders, and often imagines slights where none is intended. The trouble with this trait is that, almost invariably, the person most concerned does not realize it.

And this characteristic can cause a great deal of harm. It has led to perpetual bickering between the two of you, and may easily put an end to your romance, unless steps are taken to eradicate it.

I am writing to you direct, and will enclose a separate letter covering your girl friend's writing, and it may be that, by showing it to her, you will be able to bring home to her what a serious characteristic it is. I sincerely hope that it may be the means of stopping your troubles.

Miss W—, writes: "How can I keep my boy friend, I am very much in love with him, and really believe that he loves me in return. Not only because he tells me so, but because of those little things that tell a girl when a boy really thinks a lot about her. But, lately, he seems to have been going out with other girls. I am enclosing a specimen of his handwriting, and would like you to tell me what his real character is. Is he really as good as I think he is, and why is he going out with other girls? Does that show that he does not really love me, after all? I am so worried, and would appreciate so much your advice."

In the first place, Miss W—, I want to tell you that your boy friend is reliable enough. He is a normal type of young fellow; not very intellectual, perhaps, but straightforward. The trouble in his case is that he is somewhat vain. He thinks a good deal of himself.

I have a pretty shrewd idea that he is quite good-looking. The other girls have appealed to his egotism, and, feeling quite pleased, he has been going out with one or two of them.

It is significant, however, that he comes back to you, Miss W—. My opinion is that he will grow out of this sense of ostentation. Something may turn up that will give him a shock—something that will change his self-complacency. There is a deep-rooted balance in his nature that will come to the surface before very long. After all, he is still young.

Do not make the mistake of pandering to his egotism. Do not get the habit of catering to his vanity. Be natural with him, as you have always been. That is really what has appealed to him about you, although he probably does not realize it.

Can this well-known writer and graphologist help you, as he has helped so many others? Your handwriting tells the true story about the real you. And their handwriting will tell the truth about your friends. Send specimens of the writing you wish to be analysed, stating birth-date in each case, and enclose 10c coin for each specimen. Send with 3c stamped addressed envelope, to: Lawrence Hibbert, Graphologist, care of Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave., Winnipeg, Man. Letters are all confidential, of course. Replies will be sent as quickly as possible, but please allow at least two weeks for your reply.

TAILORED PEPLUM DRESS FOR BUSINESS AND "DRESS-UP" TYPE FOR PARTIES IN ONE PATTERN!

Don't you think this little peplum dress smart? It wraps the figure in such a youthful way. And isn't the scarf tricky slipped through a slashed bound opening?

This little rig is stunning in a woolen material, say rich rust, Kelly or bottle green, monk brown, etc. For the scarf collar velvet or self material is smart. Of course this model is lovely, too, carried out in pebbly crepe silk.

The model in the miniature sketch is bright red pebbly crepe silk. Again this model is adorable in transparent velvet or in tatted crepe silk.

Style No. 922 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18 years, 36, 38 and 40-inches bust. Size 16 requires 5½ yards of 39-inch material with 1½ yards of 39-inch contrasting for dress and jacket.

Strange Marriage Custom

Signs Tell Suitor In French District How Chances Are

One of France's strangest marriage customs still survives in the district round Dax, between Bordeaux and the Pyrenees.

When a young man calls at the home of his lady love to determine his matrimonial chances, he looks first at the frying pan. If it is hanging on the kitchen wall, the wrong way round, the young man knows he'll have to find another girl. If, however, the frying pan is placed over the fire, he knows he is considered by the family as a suitable husband for their daughter.

If the family changes its mind after the young man has made several visits a dish of nuts is served at the end of a meal to which he is invited. This is his notice to quit.

When an engagement becomes official, the young men of both families make a round of their neighbors bearing the news. Each carries a stick, and it is the custom of the girls in every home visited to tie colored ribbons on the sticks. Everybody's health is drunk in each home, so by the end of the evening the party is hilarious.

At the wedding the cake is put up for auction, the proceeds going to pay the musicians hired for the occasion. On the wedding night a deputation of the guests proceed to the married couple's room and present them with spiced cakes dipped in sweetened wine, which must be eaten in bed.

Ontario Government Keeping Watchful Eye On Contracts For Publicity

The Mail and Empire in a news story says the Ontario attorney-general's department "is reported to be keeping a watchful eye on contracts which may be entered into shortly on behalf of the Dionne quintuplets."

The Mail story says: "Neither the department nor the official guardians, which Hon. Arthur W. Roebuck appointed to the babes last fall, will, it is understood, tolerate any agreements of a 'side-show' character, but on the other hand are not adverse, it is said, to contracts that would raise substantial revenues for the youngsters' future upbringing without prejudicing their health."

Thieves Use Children

Lawbreakers In India Prefer Deaf And Dumb Boys

Drug smugglers and thieves in India are using small boys to help them carry out their crimes. The children are compelled to climb where it would be impossible for an adult to go. Whenever possible deaf and dumb boys are used because they can tell no tales. Miss M. K. Davis, superintendent of the Children's Remand Home in Bombay, reports that the institution has cared for lads eight years old, one of which was made to enter a house by climbing a pipe and open the doors for the gang.

Little Journeys In Science

ELECTRICITY

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

The first observed electrical effects were produced by rubbing amber, and the word electricity is derived from the Greek word for amber, namely electron. Amber was used in spinning, the oldest handiwork known to the human race. Spinning was performed by means of the distaff, and sometimes the spindles were made of amber. The spinner called her spindle the "clutcher" because as the spindle descended and whirled around, it rubbed against the loose feminine garments, thus becoming electrified, and on nearing the ground, it attracted bits of chaff or leaves.

It was not, however, until 1600 A.D. that Dr. William Gilbert, surgeon to Queen Elizabeth, and sometimes referred to as the father of the modern science of electricity and magnetism, discovered that when a glass rod and about twenty other substances were rubbed separately with silk, these bodies, like amber, became electrified. Many years later it was observed that when sealing-wax was rubbed with cat's fur, the wax took on an electric charge, which differed from that of the glass. Benjamin Franklin introduced the terms positive and negative to distinguish the two kinds of electricity. It was Franklin who showed by flying a kite in a thunder storm and drawing sparks from the insulated lower end of the kite string that lightning and electricity were the same. He was the inventor of the lightning rod. According to Franklin, any body is positively charged with electricity if it is repelled by a glass rod which has been electrified by silk, and negatively charged if repelled by sealing-wax which has been rubbed by cat's fur. These definitions, given us by the famous Franklin, are still in use.

It was shown many years ago that when a glass rod is rubbed with silk, the latter takes up a negative charge exactly equal to the positive charge of the glass. Thus, in general, it may be stated that positive and negative charges of electricity always appear at the same time and in exactly equal quantities.

SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen heir to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur has been systematically looting the ranch, and old Joe Carr, your partner, is drinking himself into ruin."

Dad Kane, desert rat and luckless prospector till now is returning to tell Dustin and Spike Goddard, owners of the Broken Spur ranch, who had grubstaked him, of his discovery of a rich gold mine, and shows samples of the ore. He sees Broken Spur men rustling Hour-glass cattle and protests against it.

Proof of Dustin's cattle stealing activities was accidentally discovered by Stone, who accompanied by Edith Carr was riding fence a long way from the Hour-glass ranch house.

Dustin unexpectedly comes along and seeing them, stops and talks to Edith. He mentions the Soda Springs dispute could be settled by marrying him, and Edith refuses his proposal with remarks that make Dustin furious. He insults Stone, who promptly throws him into a pool of water.

Stone tells Crewe, his foreman, about his meeting with Dustin, and is warned that Dustin would kill him if he got the chance. Stone and Crewe go to Seco to send a telegram to Gerald Keene. While at Seco an attempt is made to kill Stone, who proves more than a match for his enemies.

Dustin learns that Gerald Keene has been sent for, and also that Duro Stone has seen the Broken Spur men rustling Carr's cattle. He sets out with Dad Kane to learn the location of his gold discovery and appraise

Now Science Explains Why So Many People Past 40

Feel That They're Slipping
Losing Their "Grip" on Things

Many people 'round 40 think they're "growing old." They feel tired a lot . . . "weak." Have headaches, dizziness, stomach upsets.

Well, scientists say the cause of all this, in a great many cases, is simply an acid condition of the stomach. Nothing more.

All you have to do is to neutralize the excess stomach acidity.

When you have one of these acid stomach upsets, take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia after meals and before going to bed. That's all!

Try this. Soon you'll feel like another person! Take either the familiar liquid "PHILLIPS'" or the convenient new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. Made in Canada.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM:
Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at all drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

its value. Dad Kane shows Dustin the mine and samples of the rich ore he took from it.

(Now Go On With The Story)

Kane struggled in his blankets and came back to consciousness, an unlovely figure in the half-light. His gray old face was covered with a two-weeks-old stubble, his mouth dribbled tobacco-juice and his eyes were rheumy with sleep. Such a man had no right to live.

"Come on over here. I have something to say to you. . . ."

Kane got up and moved over, squatting by the side of the fire. He pulled the coffee-pot to him and filled his cup, for, like all prospectors, he could drink coffee at any hour.

"Well," he said cambatively, "shoot your wad."

"That vein you showed me looks mighty good at first sight," said Dustin.

There was no room for argument there. It was a statement that met Kane's whole-hearted approval.

"I've been huntin' for somethin' like it for more'n thirty years," he said. "Go on. . . ."

"After we've staked out our claim. . . . What then?"

Kane temporized. He knew well enough what the usual steps were. As a rule the man who had grubstaked the prospector got half the claim, sold out and the man to whom he sold it would be reluctant to invest more money. It was always a question of more money. The whole history of mining in the West is replete with that. Thirteen dollars are put in every mine for each dollar that is taken out. . . . Till the property passes into the hands of a corporation that has money to throw away.

Kane sucked his pipe reflectively.

"Well," he said finally, "I reckon we'll have to hire a lawyer an' fight our claim through the courts. After that we kin build a dam over in Coyote Canon. . . . That's just over the next bridge. . . . an' pipe the water over here; put our crusher an' tables in here. . . . An' . . . He droned on in the unending plans of ignorant prospectors the world over. "Anyhow," he said, "there's a million in it. . . ."

"There might have been," said Dustin sharply, "if you hadn't been a damned fool. . . ." He chose this way to lash himself into a fury that would justify to himself what he meant to do. Kane was quite right. There were millions in it. . . . but not for Kane!

"Where's the ore you took out?" he asked sharply.

"I stacked two sacks of it over there. . . ." Kane waved his hand at a shadowy mesquite clump. "Did you think I'd salted it on you?"

Dustin said nothing. He followed the squat figure through the scrub to a formless pile of ore-sacks, selected a couple of pieces of ore-laden rock from one of them and dropped them into his coat pocket. Then he turned to Kane who was watching him shrewdly.

"You damned old fool," he snarled. "You've got us into a nice mess." He stamped back to the fire with Kane behind him and his hand dove deep into his saddle-bags that lay by his blankets. His quick eyes took in Peyotl quiveringly asleep on the far side of the fire; his gorilla-like limbs flung wide. His hand came out of that saddle-bag with something in it; something that he covered with a quick flirt of the blanket and Kane gaped at him as Dustin flung one of the ore-samples into the fire.

"You and your salted stuff," said Dustin angrily.

"Salted. . . ." Kane emitted an angry roar and snatched at the rock. Even a desert rat has his points of honor, and this was old Kane's, but he never lived to make his point.

A short, stabbing jet of flame leaped from the loose blanket over Dustin's arm. A flat, smacking report like the noise a plank makes in falling on quiet water jarred the desert night. A little swirl of white smoke eddied from the end of the blanket and old Kane, Dad Kane, Shammy-skin Kane, old and very wise Ulysses of the foot-hills, sank to his knees and slowly rolled over on his face while his claw-like hands worked convulsively. Then he lay still.

Dustin cast a hurried, frightened glance over his shoulder at the still-sleeping Peyotl. His quick eyes, with a hunted glare in them took in the purlieu of the camp, glancing at hill and brush and stunted bush that surrounded them. The world-old query of the killer was taking form: "Did any one see me?"

Even Dustin could not stand the strain.

"Oh, my God!" . . . He choked a little. . . . "He dropped like a shot rabbit. . . ." Then he rocked on his heels and was violently sick.

For a moment he squatted there in the brush overcome by the violence of his emotions. Even in his life, bad as it had been, this had never happened before. The need had never arisen. If old Kane had only struggled or fought it out it would have been different. He felt that even some show of violence would have given him a reasonable excuse. Suppose some one had seen him!

Then common sense came to his relief. He knew there could be no man in this wild land. There could be no danger of course but first of all he must complete his plan. He must eliminate all chance of suspicion. From the very first his plan had been to make Peyotl the scapegoat for his act.

He snatched that lump of ore from the ashes. Then, though his shrinking muscles nearly refused to function, he dabbled the rock in the blood at the back of Kane's head and laid the rock aside. Again he scrutinized the hills, now blue-black with the falling night. No danger from any observer there! The hobbled horses seeing him move, dashed off into the brush anticipating capture. What a fool he was to think that muffled report would arouse Peyotl!

Under ordinary conditions a Deringer pistol makes little noise and he had deadened his with a blanket. The vast silence of the desert enveloped him as in a blanket and the cold wind from the hills chilled him to the bone but he walked over to the fire, rummaged among the bedding where Kane had slept and then came back to where Kane lay. In a daze he picked up the still limp body and carried it to the fire and laid it head to foot by the gorilla-like shape of the sleeping Peyotl. With the care of a workman who looks only to a completed task, he laid the blood-stained rock in the great palm of the sleeping man. Then he half-emptied Peyotl's canteen and laid it between the two bodies. The next moment he was shaking Peyotl by the shoulder and shouting in his ears.

It was no light job to awaken Peyotl. He fought with hands and feet against awaking. He rolled and struggled and pitched and with every struggle Dustin's wrath grew. Finally with a last convulsive struggle Peyotl grunted and sat up.

He stared for one long heart-breaking moment at the blood-stained rock clenched in his hand! Then his wondering eyes took in the limp body at his feet! The half-emptied canteen! His uncomprehending eyes swept Dustin staring at him and finally his gaze came back to Kane.

"What the hell. . . ." demanded Peyotl dazedly. "What the hell. . . ." His wavering finger traced a line in the air and his jaw dropped. His breath drew hard in great gasps and a look of insensate terror dawned in his eyes.

"What in hell have you done, Peyotl?" demanded Dustin curtly. "I was out lookin' at the horses when I heard you two fightin' . . . You woke up and yelled for water. . . . You said Kane had stolen your water and you'd kill him for it. . . . What've you done?"

Still Peyotl stared at him, then he gazed at the rock still in his great hand and he rose slowly to his feet. "I was. . . I was dreamin' . . . I was on the edge of a pond and old man Kane. . . ."

Suddenly he began to sob, great tearless sobs that came from his diaphragm and that racked him in spasms.

"Oh, my God!" he wailed. "I never meant to do it! I never even thought of it. . . . It's all that damned stuff you gave me. . . . That cursed stuff. . . . I'd never have done it but fer that stuff. . . ."

"That you stole while my back was turned," said Dustin accusingly. "I brought along a little bit of it to sort of taper you off your damned spells and you stole the whole supply. No wonder you committed murder. . . ."

It was much easier than Dustin had believed possible.

QUICKEST METHOD TO RELIEVE A COLD

Follow Directions to Ease
Pain and Discomfort
Almost Instantly

1. Take 2 Aspirin Tablets.

2. Drink full glass of water.
Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

3. If throat is sore, crush and stir 3 Aspirin Tablets in a third of a glass of water and gargle. This eases the soreness in your throat almost instantly.

When you have a cold, remember the simple treatment pictured here . . . prescribed by doctors everywhere today as the quick, safe way.

Because of Aspirin's quick-disintegrating property, Aspirin "takes hold"—almost instantly.

Just take Aspirin and drink plenty of water . . . every 2 to 4 hours the first day—less often afterward . . . If throat is sore, use the Aspirin gargle.

But be sure you get ASPIRIN. It is made in Canada and all druggists have it. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every Aspirin Tablet. Aspirin is the trade mark of the Bayer Company, Limited.

DOES NOT HARM
THE HEART

"You see what you've done," he said accusingly.

The soul-racking sobs continued. It is not in man to destroy his kind, or being innocent, to believe that he has killed, which is worse, without giving some sign.

"You just got mad and mashed his head in with that rock," said Dustin. "You had some fool doped dream about water. . . . Dreamed you were fightin' old Kane for water. . . . There's the canteen. . . . And when he tried to keep you from takin' his canteen, you bashed his head in. Look at that rock."

Peyotl dropped that rock as though it was red-hot and Dustin picked it up.

"Before God, Mist' Dustin, I never meant to do it. . . . I never had a word with him. . . . I liked the old man. . . . Why would I kill him. . . . ?"

"Oh, shut up, you fool! I understand how it was. He was kind o' provokin' at times but that will not help you with a jury. . . . I'm just tryin' to figure it out. . . . Of course I ought to take you back and turn you in for murder. . . ."

Peyotl shivered.

"I don't see any good in killin' another man. It's too darned bad though about old Kane. . . . If any jury ever gets the evidence . . . Kane dead, empty canteen between you; you all hopped up with Peyotl; a fight between you over water . . . you with a bloody rock in your hand and old Dad with the back of his head bashed in . . . Huh! I reckon you'll hang, Peyotl. . . ."

"What're you goin' to do?"

"Do? What do you reckon I'm goin' to do? You poor fool! You've been workin' for the Broken Spur for five years. The Broken Spur don't throw off on its friends. Poor old Kane was only a desert-rat. In a year or two he'd have got his anyhow. I'm goin' to let you go, Peyotl. I ought not to do it but I'm goin' to anyway. Get a pick out of the pack and dig a hole under that mesquite bush where we can bury him."

In twenty minutes the panting Peyotl had dug a great pit in the rocky soil. While he was digging Dustin went very carefully through the pockets of the dead man. A muttered curse told that he had not found what he sought.
